M & Mme
Poiseau

The story

Mr. And Mrs. Poiseau are the old couple we all dream of becoming. They know each other by heart and like to turn their habits upside down as often as possible.

For Mrs. Poiseau's 75th birthday, Mr. Poiseau went out of his way: he threw her a surprise birthday party. He secretly dragged half of their kitchen out on the street to bake a cake, and thought he had it all figured out, but then...

Mrs. Poiseau, her husband and yourselves are in for a few surprises: some laughs, a few pranks and a decadent recipe that will make for a rather extraordinary birthday party.

Writing: Léa Blanche Bernard and Louis Grison

Acting: Louis Grison and Macha Léon

Stage direction: Antoine Boulin

With the help of Yvo Mentens

Genre: Visual humour, silent physical theatre

Duration: 60 minutes

Letter of intent

This is a universal and silent Street Theater performance. The tempo is given by laughs, some sounds, silence and a soundtrack from the 60s.

The set is quite simple: a bench and a garden table on which the old man crammed an oven, a fishing rod, kitchenware and many other things.

The story unfolds in a public space and draws its strength from it. The couple interacts with the street environment and is eager to meet you and to share this birthday party with you.

What can you do to avoid death and aging?

For want of having discovered the Elixir of Youth, we use the scenic space to perform the impossible.
